He was raised in Plattsmouth Nebraska his whole life and graduated from Plattsmouth High School. Jason enjoyed nothing more than being around his family and friends. If he wasn't with his family you could probably find him fishing, camping or somewhere outside by the river. He always had a smile on his face and was happy regardless of the situation. His megawatt laugh could be heard from miles away, and his giant hugs would always put you in a good mood. Jason was very protective and would do anything for his family and friends of which was impossible for him to know the difference. He would give you his last dollar and the shirt off his back if you needed it, no questions asked. He especially enjoyed spending time with his children, nieces, and nephews, always quick to make them all laugh hysterically. He was a mommas boy, always checking up on and spending time with her, and never ending a conversation without an "I love you". ethic.
